The Adobe Creative Suite of Programs When you purchase a single copy of Photoshop or Photoshop Elements, you get Photoshop, Photoshop Elements, and, by default, the Adobe PDF Print Engine, which enables you to create a low-quality printed copy of your image to a PDF file format. The free version of the PDF Print Engine is not as powerful as the version included in the full Creative Suite. For your digital printing needs, I recommend using Adobe Print (www.adobe.com/products/printers_editors/prepress/print_sw_adobeprint.html) or Magick software (www.imagemagick.org/script/). ## Combining Images and Text For most of us, most of the time, when you see an image, it's an image of a person or object, and most of the time, when you see text, it's a person's name or a word, a line of text, or even a headline. So when you send out an email, you want to use an image that represents you, and you want to use the name of your company in the subject line. You may even want to use the name of your company in the email's body.

New Mexico teachers need to use their brains By Daniel Gonzales Mar 13, 2010 Schools need to eliminate testing for math and reading Schools should learn that standardized tests have hurt student achievement. A concerned student wonders why his son is not advanced in math. Well-meaning teachers tell the father that he needs to spend more time teaching his son math. While that is great advice, it ignores the fact that schools no longer want to teach math, and many have taken the easy way out. Instead of increasing math instruction, they have opted for math testing. Even though this might seem like a trivial matter, it is not. The test data for New Mexico has shown improvement in graduation rates. But this improvement occurred during the three years before the passage of No Child Left Behind. While NCLB was working to improve graduation rates for all students, it inadvertently stunted math and reading instruction. Over the past several years, the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) has reported that only 7 percent of New Mexico high school graduates are proficient in math. This is far below the 16 percent proficiency rate for New Mexico four-year college students and the 22 percent for high school graduates in Oklahoma. After several years of getting better data on students' math proficiency, the NCES released a report in 2009 indicating that only 4.2 percent of New Mexico high school graduates were proficient in math. That is even lower than the previous year, which was 4 percent. This means that New Mexico has not made the progress that the state needs to. The NCES report also indicated that New Mexico high school graduation rates have shown no improvement during the past 10 years. In fact, the graduation rate actually declined from 2004 to 2008. This is not only bad news for New Mexico, but for every other state in the country. Nationwide, graduation rates have not improved. In fact, 45 percent of all high school students are not graduating on time. Educators and administrators should focus on what they know is best for students' long-term success — teaching. Instead of wasting time and energy on testing, they need to use those resources to fix the problems they face. In New Mexico, more than 60 percent of high school students come from low-income homes, and 40 percent are English language learners. In addition, 15 percent of students are homeless. The NC

Q: Ubuntu detects 512 GB SSD on Amazon EC2 ami-636cf9e7 but disables it as part of the Sysprep process I have an Ubuntu AMI hosted on Amazon EC2, and today I began running through the template in Amazon's own CloudFormation template editor to create a new Stack, and I encountered the following error: {"FailedCreateStack", "ResponseMetadata": {"RequestId": "...", "HTTPStatusCode": 400, "HTTPHeaders": {"date": "Fri, 23 Aug 2014 20:51:44 GMT", "content-length": "314", "content-type": "application/json", "x-amzn-requestid": "...", "server": "AmazonEC2" }} } This seems to mean there's a problem with the size of the drive, and that the OS is partitioning it. I performed some preliminary debugging and discovered that the drive is detected as 512 GB, which makes sense, but the system is disabling it during the Sysprep process as part of the Recover option when shutting down. Logging in as root and changing the uid of the EC2 user to 1000 didn't correct the problem, and neither did running the init 5 command. I'm out of ideas, but I'm wondering if there's a way to fix this or if
